

Group companies can deliver at the highest end of quality and performance standards of ISO 9001- 14000 and 22000. The ability to meet difficult product and service specifications is one of the main contributors to our being selected as global suppliers by some of our multinational customers

The group company's quality system ensures complete traceability and measurability and satisfy customer needs and demands, meaning a continuous improvement to standards on a daily basis at all levels.

We are proud to say that one of the significant factors which has driven the growth of BPG is product and service quality. This is also dependent on the technical capability of our people and the machinery park which ensure our operational competitiveness.
